

ABSTRACT

In one embodiment, a system and a method for cooling a storage device pertain to determining the temperature of the storage device and adjusting computer operation so as to reduce the temperature of the storage device if that temperature is 5 deemed to be too high.